Covenant's team members have a wealth of knowledge and experience developed over long careers working within the UK and globally within the British military, law enforcement and the intelligence community.

Our consultants have all worked at a strategic and operational level delivering key elements of the UK Government's counter terrorism strategy focused on the protection of people and infrastructure and other vital business assets.

Our skills, knowledge and experience have contributed to the safety and security of people living and working within the UK and wider afield.

The team has been involved in a diverse range of protective security projects including the 2012 London Olympic Games, HM The Queen's Diamond Jubilee, the 2014 football World Cup and the protective security arrangements for people attending major public and military events within the UK. In 2015 we assisted the Tourism industry in Egypt and Tunisia.

The team has also provided our clients with a range of bespoke training services including table-top exercises to test plans, processes and procedures, a variety of safety and security courses, and presentations and workshops to meet the clients' needs. We are able to conduct training needs analysis to identify your security training requirements.

We live and work within a business world that places high demands on the protection and safety of our staff, clients and customers whilst in our working environments.

Our business works because we plan and then manage, monitor and operate our plans. Planning allows us to lay down the foundations that we can build upon and a basis from which to measure our strengths and potential vulnerabilities. The effectiveness of your security plan, policies and procedures forms an important cornerstone from which to build your integrated security regime. Your plan should include strategic direction and operational guidance concerning how you intend to protect all of your key business assets, including your people, infrastructure, information and products, from the threats and associated risks that they may face. In essence, this is the key element of a security plan.

Ask yourself these questions:

- Do we have a security plan?
- Do we incorporate policies and procedures within that plan?
- Do we have a Business Continuity plan?
- Do our plans complement or conflict with each other?
- Have we tested and adjusted these plans, policies and procedures?

A Covenant security plan will always include:

- The threats and associated risks that may impact on your business from a security perspective
- The assets you seek to protect and why they may be targeted
- Geographical areas of responsibility from grass roots to board room
- Clarity concerning the integration of protective security throughout the business estate

- Clearly defined management chains and ownership of responsibilities concerning security
- General security policies relating to what you require to happen and the desired standard
- Specific security procedures relating to how people must act, function and respond
- A communications plan across the business estate

'Failure to plan is planning to fail'

Our team of consultants have excellent experience in the development and design of robust and proportionate security planning alongside our clients.

Our start point is to understand your environment, your business and the processes and procedures that allow you to function effectively as a business.

We can craft security plans and policies relating to how you want to operate safely and securely. We will work with you to develop plans incorporating important topics such as emergency evacuation and the management and response to suspicious activity.

We can audit your existing plans and provide guidance on enhancing and improving them in line with your business functions and the current threat picture.

Covenant offers a range of planning services. We can determine your security planning requirements through our consultation process. Our planning services include:

SECURITY PLAN AUDITING

We will conduct an audit of your current plans, policies and procedures aligned to security and prepare a comprehensive 'roadmap' report that will allow you to develop and produce effective, proportionate and sustainable protective security plans. This will enhance the protection of your key business assets whilst promoting a culture of safety and security throughout your organisation.

EMERGENCY RESPONSE PLANNING

Covenant specialists will work with you to design and develop emergency response plans that will allow you to react to, manage and recover from security related incidents ranging from an act of terrorism through to other high end security related events that could impact on your business environment.

BESPOKE EVACUATION PLANNING

Covenant will design emergency plans to meet the needs of your business environment and address the likely threats and associated risks that may impact on you, ranging from terrorism, an active shooter attack to suspicious items and fire.
